| The marketplace template evaluates the libvirt XML raw data instead of displaying it. As a result the raw part of the template does not render on the website. |                                  |

The appmarket website is not part of the main OpenNebula repo (and this redmine)

I'm moving this issue to the addon github:
